What is CPD?

CPD is short for Continuing Professional Development, and it is the key to continuing your career as a Feuerstein professional. The Feuerstein Method is dynamic; it develops and evolves all the time. To keep your professional certification valid, every graduate of our program from July 1, 2012 is required to:

- Report at least 30 hours of work with each module (IE-1, IE-2, IE Basic-1, IE Basic-2, etc.) of the Feuerstein Method that you received certification in.
- Take 8 credits in course work over a period of four years. The courses can be taken right here – online, and at your convenience.

Please Note: We will constantly be adding new courses and encourage you to check in with us frequently. We

This lecture reviews three main concepts of the theory of structural cognitive modifiability and their relationships – the concept of “modifiability”, the concept of “cognition” and the concept of “structure”. The concept of modifiability is compared to the concept of information accumulated by an individual and linked to more recent discoveries in the field of neural plasticity. The relationships between cognition, behavior and emotions are discussed. Three main criteria of structural change are elaborated. These theoretical concepts are illustrated by clinical and educational examples, including those of the Instrumental Enrichment program.
